I hadn't noticed this, but if it's true, I would presume it's like how you can't pull a trigger while aiming at a companion -- Dina is in the middle of telling you about how this sort of place is important to her, and the synagogue is more of a talky/puzzley section than a combat area, so it wouldn't make much sense for Ellie to start blatin' you can shoot anywhere in the synagogue, it just greys out the reticle when you aim at the star of David's and menorahs like when you aim at allies. This is not the case when it comes to the cross and Virgin Mary statues in the game though Yeah, why would you waste the bullets? Even beyond that, the better question is: whooooooo cares?

Maybe she wasn't really a virgin?

Jesus loves us. It only seems fair to love him back.

Because Neil Druckman is one of them.

What do you mean by "one of them"?
